

IS1006

Product Information

Note: Depending on the original O.E. production design, two upper control arm styles were used, a forged version and a stamped version. Both designs are interchangeable (Refer to image below).

Note: If a space greater than 1/16" (1.5mm) is observed between the bushing inner surface and the cross-member then the washers supplied should be used to take up the space (see drawing below).

